It will be slow work to couvrince the average man that the Legislative department of the Government should have greater immonity from this sort of thing than that acceutive department. The legislatore allowed itself to be the sluice way throw which the executive department of the Government was "affected," by receiving Judge Jackowi's communication, and thereby participated in casting contunely upon a co-ordinate department of the Government which it is as much bound to protect in all tit digitly, as if the assaults were directed against the legislature itself.
